Galapagos Islands Tour

Spend your days trekking across the islands observing the wildlife and flora or snorkeling with sea lions in the crystal clear waters of the Pacific Ocean, a perfect opportunity for a close encounter with nature. Here visitors share the ocean with giant rays, swordfish, sea lions, brightly colored tropical fish and spectacular sunsets. The Galapagos Islands are ideal for adventure activities. With their stunning array of marine life, they are ideal for snorkeling whether by novices or experts. The Galapagos are also a birdwatcher's dream, especially if you're determined to identify all 13 of the Darwin finches, the waved albatross, the flightless cormorant and countless other jewels of the islands. Do not forget your camera or binoculars because this is a must for all lovers of the outdoors.

Highly multilingual nature guides certified by the Galapagos National Park will escort you. On the daily visits to the islands, they will be with you every step of the way, taking time to explain the highlights along the way. They will be giving lectures with multimedia presentations and sharing their knowledge of the geology, history, evolution, and flora and fauna of the islands.
